Ms. McDougald shares how churches were very segregated, and remembers when an usher would tell her to sit in the back of the church. Later, the priest welcomed her and her friends to sit anywhere they would like.

How do you think Ms. McDougald felt during this time? How would you react?

4

If you could ask Ms. McDougald a question, what would it be?

5

"To pray. Pray. Pray."

"Be kind to everybody. Respect everybody. And don't be gossiping about nobody."

How can you live out Ms. McDougald's final advice?
