Create a dossier on a character. Pretend that you are a foreign spy sent to report on your chosen character. Compile a secret file with general and specific information regarding your character. Be sure to include information beyond physical characteristics. What motivates the character? What habits does the character have? Who does the character associate with? Etc. Don't forget the photo.	Pretend the book has been made into a movie. Create a trailer to advertise the story. In your video, include information about the characters, setting, and main conflict, but don't spoil the ending. Think about the audience for this movie and what might excite them about the story.	Create a movie of yourself as a TV reporter and give a report of a scene from the book as if it were happening live. Pay attention to setting and costume of character in movie. Include interviews with important characters and information pertinent to the setting.
Create a mini-comic book relating a pivotal chapter of the book. Make sure the story line is clear through words and illustrations.	Create a movie of an interview of a character from your book. Pay attention to setting and costume of character in movie. Have questions that will give the character the opportunity to discuss his/her thoughts and feelings about his/her role in the story.	Create a diary that one of the story's main characters might have kept throughout the entire book's events. Share the character's thoughts and feelings not just be a summary of events. The physical diary could reflect the character's personality.
Design and produce a series of postcards. On one side draw or paint an appropriate image. On the other side, compose a message to from one character to another. The messages could share the character's feelings about what is happening.	Write and record an original song that tells the story of the book.	After reading a book of history or historical fiction, make an illustrated timeline showing 7-8 events of the story and draw a map showing the location(s) where the story took place.