VISITING CATHOLIC HIGH SCHOOLS
Selecting the right Catholic high school is all about finding the best fit. In addition to providing holistic faith formation and rigorous academics, Catholic high schools offer beautiful campuses and facilities. Due to the coronavirus pandemic, Catholic high schools have adapted their admissions practices to observe social distancing guidelines to ensure a safe environment. Catholic high schools will provide access for prospective students and their families through certain in-person visits, virtual tours and other means. Our goal is to provide optimal opportunities for students and families to learn about our Catholic high schools while keeping health and safety as a top priority.

Please review the individual school profile enclosed in this directory and visit school websites to learn more about how to visit each Catholic high school.

A Catholic, Jesuit college preparatory school, Gonzaga offers outstanding academics and a wide variety of co-curricular activities. Pedro Arrupe, S.J., for our students to become “Men for and with Others.” Performing community service and helping those in need is encouraged throughout a student’s four years on Eye Street. “Men for and with Others” is not an empty phrase during a young man’s tenure at Gonzaga or in the years that follow in the wider world. Admission is based on school performance, current teacher recommendations, test scores, and a personal essay, as well as extracurricular activities.

Gonzaga seeks well-rounded young men with a strong desire to succeed and to be part of Washington’s oldest all-boys school. The student body is diverse and is drawn from the entire metropolitan area and beyond.

St. Anselm's Abbey School is a Catholic boys school of 250 students in grades 6-12 located on 40 wooded-acres in the Michigan Park neighborhood of Washington, D.C.

From the commitment of a small group of Benedictine monks nearly eight decades ago to provide young men of high intellect a world-class education from the nation’s capital, St. Anselm's has expanded its facilities and curricular offerings to become one of the premier academic schools in the region, if not the nation. For the Class of 2020, the average SAT score eclipsed 1400 and 92% of graduates earned recognition as an AP Scholar or higher standing.

St. Anselm's offers a rigorous liberal arts education rooted in the classical and Catholic intellectual tradition. All courses are considered to be at the honors level, including the 27 AP classes the school offers in the Upper School. The strength of St. Anselm's academic program is complemented by a robust set of co-curricular activities and student-run organizations, including Model United Nations, a gaming club, musical and dramatic groups, and cultural interest groups, among others. St. Anselm's students compete in the Potomac Valley Athletic Conference where they participate in nine different sports with several options to choose from each season. Service and service-learning are also at the heart of a St. Anselm's education, with 11th and 12th graders spending every Tuesday morning volunteering at 12 different sites in the local community.

The school also takes great pride as a community in seeing that as the academic success of our students has increased, so has our student body’s diversity. Today, more than 40% of all students receive financial aid and nearly 45% of boys at St. Anselm's identify as historically underrepresented minorities.
